TOPIC: If I could invent something

If I could invent something, I will invent a machine that can read people's minds and correct the bad minds. We live in a world where people have diverse and cruel minds. When I invent this machine, it would read people's minds to know whether it is good or bad. It would also enable people to know what is going on in other people's minds so they would know who to associate with. With this machine there would be no quarrel or conflicts in the society because this machine would read people's minds that cause quarrel and conflicts and correct it. When I invent this machine, nobody will have cruel minds to do bad things to anyone in the society again.

With this machine it will be easy to detect people that have cruel thoughts to hurt other people in the society. This machine would also read people's deep thoughts on misleading other people and prevent it from happening. There are some people who make promises and do not fulfill their promises every time. When I invent this machine there would be peace and harmony in the society because this machine would be used to correct people's minds so they would not hurt somebody that does not know anything.

This machine will protect innocent individuals from harm aimed at being inflicted on them by other persons. For this reason, a lot of innocent people in the society will be protected from dark and cruel minds. There are lots of people who destroy themselves by smoking cigarette, sniffing Indian hemp, and taking marijuana and other hard drugs because it would destroy the person's dignity and passion, but this machine will detect and correct their minds. Those that have low self-esteem which causes downplay of potentials or ignorance of their positive minds and qualities, measuring themselves against their peers, can be detected and their minds corrected with this machine. They can therefore trust, value, and see themselves good enough.

For politicians who embezzle money, this machine will detect and correct their minds. So instead of embezzling money, they improve the society. Today, look at Nigeria, there are bad roads, education is collapsing, and people are suffering because of the politician's embezzling money. With this machine, detection, and correction of their minds from embezzling money will be possible. It can detect and correct the minds of the people that are involved in cyber-crimes and other crimes of the society. This machine will also detect minds that tell lies and play truancy because it affects the society generally and would correct their minds so they would not tell lies or play truancy again. I Want to end this essay by letting you know if I could invent this machine, I would be able to make the society and the world a better place worth living in for me and you.
