IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING NEW

If I could invent something new, I would invent a machine that will wash, dry, iron and fold clothes. This would be good for people who are very busy, it would reduce their stress, people would appreciate it if they could get access to this device. This washing machine once connected with tap will have water in it, this washing machine will wash cloth in not more than thirty minutes. This only machine will wash cloth clean just once not like the present one which can wash like five times before it gets clean. This will enhance fast washing; and will be easier, faster and user-friendly.

After this washing and the clothes get clean, the next step is rinsing of the clothes, it will automatically rinse the clothes in it after water gets into it, it will rinse it completely that no form of soap will be found if the cloth is squeezed. This rinsing is once to make it easier and faster. After rinsing, this machine will drain all water in it, it will move the clothes into another sector in the machine that will dry the clothes until it is dry. This drying will take place for a period of fifteen minutes without traces of been cold to make things easier and ready to use. After drying, the machine will start strong the dried cloth, the cloth been ironed will have pass through washing, rinsing, drain and drying sector of the machine this ironing may take place for almost fifteen minutes especially if the clothes are much and heavy, after ironing folding of the clothes is much more considered, then the folding is more easier, this folding will be neat, faster and easier than using hands to fold.

This machine would be the best and unique one, if this machines are invented people will be happy and stay healthy, some people will ask how will the machine invented makes people healthy, the answer is if persons who are critically indisposed has this, such would be able to focus on the sickness and take care of themselves.
