IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING NEW

It was a cold morning, hearing the drops of water, comes a girl named Joy, who remembered that the next day would be her sister's wedding day. After the jubilation, she remembered that she still needs to plait her hair and do the house chores.

If I could invent something new, it would be hair plaiting machines which will help ladies plait their hair in seconds so that they can continue with their daily activities. I also thought of the importance, advantages and disadvantages. One of the importance is that it will save time. The women that often go for work early in the morning will not have enough time to plait their hair and may resolve to cutting of hair. It will be easier and faster. Joy, in my story can focus on her chores and even join her sister in the bridal shower without any worries if she has the hair plaiting machine.

Another advantage of this is that it can also be used for drying the hair. Working class women would not have to go through the stress of going to the salon or holding a blower. If it was up to me to decide how it will look like, it would look like a helmet which will have up to ten to fifteen hairstyles, including igbo hairstyles like 'puff-puff', 'tie-tie', and also Yoruba hairstyles like 'turkin' etc. It would use his or her master's voice to power on. It should be moderate in size and not too heavy so that people can be able to carry it from one place to another. So, while engaging in other activities, the lady can wear it on and get her hair done.

It will be a beautiful and amazing machine to have in the society. It will be waterproofed. In some cases where mothers buy it and have little children around, they could maybe throw it into water or sprinkle water on it. The waterproof feature will prevent the water from spoiling the machine.

Due to the enhanced technology, it would take a lot of time and energy for it to exist. It will also be costly to afford. It would sometimes malfunction. This might be because of the dislocation of wires or disconnected wires, those will be the disadvantages.

Hair making helmet will be a nice thing to have in the society as it will be of benefit to mothers and their daughters. Fathers will not have to spend money weekly for hair making too. Thank you!
