IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING NEW

I always have this dream of inventing something new, something that can help the society and create a way of reducing stress and solve the problem of stress in society. On a school day, we were told to write on an AI that will solve a problem in the society, so that day, as I was typing a large piece of work into the system, I felt pain on my thumbs, then I got this idea to make 'a mind reading headset keyboard'. It's a kind of machine that whatever you want to type, you read it in your mind and once you put on the headset, everything starts to appear in the monitor. It is connected either through Bluetooth or through a cord to the system.

This device would solve a lot of problem like; time, stress, tiredness and getting sore fingers. A mind reader device but this time around, it uses a headset. This device can offer assistance to students, secretaries, workers and teachers because it will save them the stress of typing word for word. You can get your document typed while you relax yourself.

The impact of this machine is that it will help humans in meditation. You must have to read the piece in your mind for the AI machine to type it accurately.
