

Name: Uja Feechi

Class:JSS1

School: Adorable British College

If I could invent something

Good afternoon everyone, my name is Blossom Uja. I am going to be talking about my dream product called the Est motivational speaker , the free life saver . This would be most needed in hospitals and therapies.

People die every day now where this AI, which is free, would come to reduce the loss of lives.

How will it help the world? People die of shock, depression, and mental issues.

Can I tell you something? Madness can be cured. People most often get these things not because of their sickness but because of what happened to them. Imagine if we had 100 robots who could find the cure to any disease or virus. Something that will tell these people things that will touch their emotions, telling them things that will make them feel more of themselves.

We need things like this in the world. May luck come to us so that the world will treat us even nicer.

