

An essay on " If I Could invent something new "

Invention means the beginning of something where it is found or where it is originated from.

To invent to find something or to think about something and do it to be useful to Everyman on earth,like phone was an invention of someone who thought about it and decided to invent it which is now useful to man that is used for communication,even some people uses phone to do some research,jobs online and learn about things online etc .

The importance of invention is that if a person invents something new today another person will come with another invention tomorrow and everyone will come up with different ideas.

Invention is growing little by little day by day because first generation computers made use of vacuum tubes while second generation computers made use of transistors, and so on.meaning that each generation computer where greater than each other with the sense of human to invent some beautiful things such as phones,satellites,televisions, computers,cars etc.

I always wish to invent a vaccine that when a mother takes it she will not have pain in giving birth.

I want to invent this because I have heard the vaccines they give to babies known as immunizations to prevent diseases.

Vaccines that are used for curing sick people,examples are HIV/AIDS since the vaccine has been invented there were easy treatment for the infected person.

So I decided to make this vaccine because all women gets pain in child bearing.

Furthermore,women die in giving birth because of the pain they get during childbearing.

Also,some women might loose their womb because of the pain they get,some might not even want to give birth because their mother witnessed the pain and died because of this children will not be much again.

In a situation whereby a woman gave birth to triplets two died one survived,it would cause sorrow to the mother.

But this vaccine when injected both muscular or intravenous will stop the pain of childbearing and this vaccine will stop the fear of people who are scared in giving birth.it will no longer cause women killing themselves or spoil their wombs and terminating their pregnancy.

In conclusion inventions can be used for different purposes and this vaccine can be used to prevent anger,fear,abandon and termination of a child.
