TOPIC: IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING

IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING

I love to invent things because it's fun, it makes one know new things and I love science and invention because it inspires me to be an inventor.

If I could invent something my invention will change the world and it will make the world an easier and better place, people that have problems with their bodies will get better due to my invention, invention are used to make things easier, invention has been existing since the old age and keeps developing to this world you see now.

If I had the opportunity, I would love to invent a "MICROCHIP" in form of a card, the microchip I want to invent will be medium in size and it will do so much things like saving data for years without getting damaged, and talks to you in the sense that when you come home it operate all the function of the home.

Also, I would love to make another machine that makes sight easier in that sense that it takes the form of a glass lens and it scan the environment and gives the exact picture on +how the house or environment is to a blind or bad sighted person in his or her brain and would like to call it "DSEE2.0".

Also, I would love to invent a machine that makes a speaker transform to any shape or animal of a person's choice in the aspect that any occasion a person is in he or she will be able to change the speaker to whatever shape, animal or object he or she what, the process will be by pressing a button and thinking of anything you what and would like to call it "TRANS2.6".

Also, I would love to invent a machine that detect and removes disease from a person, it goes into any part of your system like the digestive system and would like to call it “SKD2.1”. also make an amazing machine that can make any hairstyle of your choice be possible, you need to type any hairstyle you want and the machine will do it very well and I would like to call it “DE HAIRNATOR”.

Also, I would love to make a shoe or boot that can be able to float on water, walk on water and move on water the, why because if someone can’t swim and really what to go on the surface of water like ocean, he or she can use it and go on water and it will have overpowering batteries and it will be waterproof and would like to name it “BOOT 5000”.

If I would invent something they will be inventions that will change the world for good and make the world a better place.
