IF I HAD A CHANCE TO INVENT SOMETHING NEW

If I had a chance to invent something new; a new country called Nigeria will be my innovation. A new Nigeria that will maintain its lead as the giant of Africa. A new Nigeria where there will be no insecurity and any form of disunity. Since I was born, I have grown up to see and hear how Nigerians are killed almost every single day either by Boko-Haram terrorists, militants, armed robbers, kidnappers, herders, cultists, amongst others. The country have virtually become a pariah state where investors no longer feel safe to do their business while the ones already associated with the motherland are leaving the country in droves.

Another area that needs urgent fix is the Educational sector. A quote from the bible says that “my people perish for lack of knowledge”. This is what’s happening to Nigerians, a huge portion of our population are illiterate and this has led to most of the social, economic and political problems the country faces today. Food sustainability which is essential to the growth of any nation has become a luxury. The farmers find it difficult to go to their farms. Price of food items are on the increase each single day and people can barely feed nowadays. In the new Nigeria, farmers and industries will be fully funded to make food available to every Nigerian; thereby reducing the endless list of beggars littered in every nook and crannies of the country. A new Nigeria, where there will be no scammers both online and offline, no manipulation of any sort to cajole the youth to believe that money is better than acquiring good education. Muslim and Christian will understand that we are serving one God as I was thought in school; killing or hurting one another is a crime before God. Igbo, Yoruba, Hausa and other tribes will understand that we dwell in same flesh, therefore, we should care and protect each other. A brand new Nigeria where all the bad politicians will be displaced, both the government and the governed will be placed on equal right to enjoy the dividends of democracy. A beautiful country where there will be constant power supply for everyone living here to enjoy. Good and accessible healthcare facilities will be stationed at various locations to help rescue the dying and reduce death rate just like it’s done in the foreign clime.

If given opportunity to invent something new, I will create a new and innovative type of country called Nigeria where the government (or leaders) will be intentional and sincere in what they do, as well as having committed leaders who have the interest of the country and not personal interest. Once the country gets rid of corruption and education is well addressed, there will be development in all sectors and people who had gone into crime will be drastically reduced. This will help set the country again on the path of progress where my generation will have something good to talk about my country.
