IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING NEW

One of the problems the world is facing now is that many people are chronic liars which ranges from marriages, politics, declaring of elections, education and other different ways. Thinking about solutions to the above mentioned issues, I strongly feel like inventing a mind scanner. Well, a mind scanner is an electronic application that helps find those who lie, trying to cover up evil deeds. You can help yourself by tapping on the app, putting the picture of the person that you want to verify the truth from. So, when the app gives a kind of sound that shows danger, then you can now call whoever the person is and ask few verifying questions.

Now, mind scanner could help find those people that lie during political campaign. Those people that just want to take people's money and they are eating it alone. In that regard, it would help find a better person that would be able to secure the community in times of danger. Honestly, when you vote for a lazy man you would suffer the consequences. For instance, the way we all voted for the current president of Nigeria, we could bring a mind scanner to help find the truth behind those who counted the vote. So, a mind scanner would be of good advantage to everyone in the society.

Furthermore, in a situation whereby something gets missing in an institution and no student admits to that, then a mind scanner is always there for you because it would help to give the truth. In a situation where all the students in SS3 gets all A1 in their West African Examination Council and the Principal finds out that they do not do better like that in internal examinations, he could use the mind scanner to verify all the students' exams by their faces. Then at that point, you can now give the child an extension or punishment for committing a crime in school, and that is what we call examination malpractice. So the advantages of a mind scanner in educational system are very massive.

In addition, the invention of a mind scanner would definitely reduce the rate of robbery and banditry ravaging our nation today. Every day comes with one bad news or the other, such as kidnapping, armed robbery, and other heinous crimes. With a mind scanner in your hands, would you be worried that much? No, one would not. The use of mind scanner would help scan through your fellow passengers in a bus before taking off, and that would help detect terrorists in the vehicle. Mind scanner helps in different aspects and it would be a big benefit to people.

In conclusion, a mind scanner would help in both education, marriage, declaring of elections, politics and also in our daily activities. Now, we can see that mind scanner would be a great advantage to people in the society and both nation.
