

IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING NEW

The world keeps undergoing change with many scientists exploring the world to discover many new things. In developed countries of the world, astronauts are sent into space to discover new things about our planet and others planets. Discovery has also led to innovation and inventions that have helped to improve the lot of humans in their own little and unique ways.

Now, to the question: If I could invent something new, what would it be? I would like to invent something that can better the world. I've always had it in mind to invent something that can bring justice to the world. To achieve this, I would invent a machine that can tell when a person tells a lie.

I am thinking if a machine like that exists, there would be justice. People will not cheat or be cheated if there is a machine that detects when somebody tells a lie. A lie detector would be great. I would want to make that lie detector exist all over the world.

The lie detector can also be used in the court of law. When two people are called to testify to what happened on a day when an incident took place, if it happens that one of the two people is telling a lie, it would be the lie detector that would make a particular sound to tell the people in court that a particular person is telling a lie so as to bring the appropriate punishment upon those who tell lies and to administer justice to those concerned.
