If I would Invent Something New

I am writing an invention the will change the fate of our future. I am going to create or invent will be a clone machine it will be called the (FDM)Franks Duplication Machine. People will ask how is this useful people might ask??

It can clone humans and objects to help in doing commercial activities, because clones can help to do farmwork, cook, and to do chores and errands.

Although everything that has an advantage has a disadvantage such as it could destroy earth after overrunning all existing life.

This machine works with solar and eletric power.
