IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING NEW

Imagination, they say, is the key to inventions. Conceptually, to invent means to create something that has never been made or created before. One of the problems that the world is facing today is that people are chronic liars, ranging from marriage, to government, politics and education. If I could invent something that could be so useful in that regard, it is a mind scanner. Reason being that it could help to solve many problems in Nigeria.

First of all, a mind scanner will solve the greater percentage of Nigeria's political problems. When the political aspirants are into their usual campaign and promising the people heaven and earth, all you need to do is to bring out your phone and do as if you want to take a picture. You scan him and know whether the person campaigning is lying or not.

With a mind scanner, domestic issues petty lying with the children will be a thing of the past. If a child uses a glass cup for drinking and it suddenly breaks from his hands, there will always be the tendency that their entire children will deny ever touching the glass cup. No stories, all the mother needs to do is to bring out her phone, tell the children to pose for a snapshot, meanwhile, she is scanning them to ascertain who actually broke the glass cup.

This will make students to live lie free lives in school. Students usually fake sicknesses just to skip classes in school, especially borders. If a child meets the nurse and tells her that he or she is having malaria, all the nurse needs to do is to bring out her scanning camera and scan the child's mind to ascertain whether the child is faking it. At that point, if it turns true that the child is faking the sickness, she would send the child back to classroom immediately with serious caution.

Interestingly, fake pastors and priests (even traditional priests known as Babalawo's) would not be spared by the dexterity of a mind scanner. This device would help us to differentiate between real and fake prophets in the church. Some pastors are hypocritical. They tell the congregation that it is not good to cheat on their wives, meanwhile, they cheat on their spouses a lot, but with the help of a mind scanner, the problem could easily be solved. Everyone will know when a deceiver is in the pulpit blabbing and when the genuine one is on stage.

In conclusion, the mind scanner is a good machine that reveals the truth of something, even when another person is lying about it. It would also help to stop the spread of fake news the society, it minimises the alarming rate of divorce in the community and the world will be a better place to live in.
