ESSAY TOPIC: IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING NEW

The word invention is an act of creating a new device or process of creating a new device.

If I had the chance to invent something new, it would be something that will be beneficial for mankind, animals and agriculture. If I were to invent something new it would be a fertilizer that grows crops between the period of 2-3 months.

Firstly, I like the thought of crops that come out only once a year (annual crops) e.g. apples etc. to be surplus and available at least 4-5 times a year, I love the field of agriculture and would also love to contribute to help grow crops in our societies.

Secondly, it will be a big change on the side of farmers, crops that normally need to be watered for one year would be watered for only a short period of 2-3 months, the farmers will be able to grow crops faster and also get money in fact lots and lots of money as a result of the rapid growth of their crops, and it could also help vegetarian buyers/consumers just like me, I love eating fruits a lot. Because of the fertilizer, consumers could buy their favorite fruits that only come out once in a year to be available at least 4-5 times a year.

Lastly, it would be a scientific breakthrough on the path of agricultural scientists because no one has been able to invent or create that kind of agricultural technology.

In conclusion, if a fertilizer that could grow crops faster was created, it would be for the benefit of mankind and animals, animals because herbivorous animals like goats, cow etc. can have something to munch on, it would help farmers, it would help vegetarians/fruit lovers and scientists.
