

If I could Invent Something New

Inventions have always been a source of help to mankind. As humans, we need inventions to make life easier and comfortable for us. Recently, I had the inspiration to make a Wallet Legal Diary.

This special diary will be of great assistance to lawyers who are in practice. This diary is designed with five components: The Wallet, Evidence Act, Fundamental right rules of 2011, the year calendar from January to December and 20 Supreme Court cases on the contemporary contentious issues.

This new invention will take law practice to the lime light where practice will be easy for both intelligent and average lawyers in the court room. The evidence act which is one of the components of the diary is the bed rock of practices in every aspect of law. Every aspect of law has a proof with evidence. The law that regulates evidence in Nigeria is the evidence act made by the National Assembly. Majority of the lawyers who are in the court room forget their evidence act at home but no lawyer forgets their diary at home. Having the evidence act attached to the diary will solve that problem.

Again, the monthly calendar of the wallet diary will help the lawyer to know the available dates which he or she may adjourn their case to. This will also expose the conflicting dates, it streamlines adjournments.

In conclusion, this unique diary will help lawyers excel and this will help fight for people who had been prisoned unjustly.

Anita Ikechukwu

JSS1.

Aladumo International High School, Omagwa, Rivers State.