

IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING NEW

If I have the opportunity to create something current, it will be a teleportation machine. Teleportation is the hypothetical transfer of matter or energy from one point to another without traversing the physical space between them that will help to reduce traffic jam, eliminate road traffic accident, debar carbon emission from vehicles and rule out physical stress.

To begin with, if I have the opportunity to make a teleportation machine. It will surely help to reduce the rate of traffic jam in the world. Traffic jams occurs as result of the use of great number of cars by individuals. Moreso, statistics also show that the rate of traffic jams increase. And every year approximately 1-19 million people get in traffic jams. This is also as a result of being in a hurry to go to work on time, to the hospital or catch up with daily activities, because they are stuck on the way they find it difficult to reach their destination on time. However this may lead to them getting query at their work place, also, in an emergency situation, for example taking a sick person to the hospital, when the victim is stuck in a traffic jam it causes delay to treatment that would have been administered to the victim and it may lead to further damage or death.

Furthermore, producing a teleportation machine will help to eliminate road traffic accident, this is caused by reckless driving, and hurrying to go to a particular destination some people don't realize that they violate laws regulation, they even play loud music while driving, some people that are young and don't have drivers license, drive recklessly on the road, sometimes they cannot be reprimanded due to the high influential statuses in the society. Although road traffic accident can be caused by the use of faulty vehicles, but with the help of a teleportation machine the rate shown by statistics, which is about 20 and 50 million people that are affected by road accident will decrease and people will be able to transport themselves without stress or being involved in an accident.

Additionally, manufacturing a teleportation machine, will help to debar carbon emissions produced from vehicles. Carbon emission from vehicles is dangerous to human health causing air pollution it causes diseases that may affect the respiratory system, predisposing people to disease conditions like asthma, cancer, heart failure and also renal failure. Moreover, due to the disease condition, people spend more money on treatment, this will in-turn reduce the nation's wealth.

Similarly, creating a teleportation machine will help to rule out stress on drivers which can help them to relax physically and emotionally. Thereby increasing productivity in their daily work phase, this will in-turn improve the organizational output, because they are relaxed and coordinate, being able to carry out their daily activities.

In summary, if I could invent a teleportation machine, the world will be a better place for everyone and it will reduce traffic jam, eliminate road traffic accident, debar carbon emission from vehicles and rule out physical stress.
