ESSAY TOPIC: IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING NEW

I would invent a new world and new country that are so beautiful and become the leader and I would say a word which when you slipped it into a conversation, it caused all the people who heard it unconsciously reframe what ever they were about to say so that all the violence and unkindness was left out forgotten an account of being unnecessary and irrelevant to the point they want to make it up

I would invent a raven suit that I could put on and become the size shapes of a raven, wings tails voice, the whole raven not particularly big Adolescent size suit I'd fly up there with them be a teenager, telling jokes on a summer night.

I would invent a scientist that involving the imagined impact of science on society and technical science and machinery method that help industries and war game practice that is used to military plans.

I would invent a machine that rise the dead and a sharpie pen and pencil that didn't stink a water machine or a water power that is used in machinery electricity and a water wheel that that is used in machinery derived.

I would invent a zoot suit that I could put on and become the size of a zoot and an eagle suit that the sizes shapes and wings of the eagle.

A sciurus hudsonicus of Northern United State and Canada and the North Atlantic drift of a technical current.

Nobody has invented a life Roman one that passes over your world like a cartoon paint brush, with every stroke, phone calls made order achieved, paper work dealt with and field dishes washed, laundry folded cats feel, pencils sharpened, shoes field.
