IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING NEW

Every working day on my way to school has been an inspiration on how to invent a system that will free the street from alms begging of aged people and children.

Imagine the cry and pain of aged people and children on the street because of the system of our country that do not take them to consideration!

I could not believe the story of how some less privilege died of starvation in Lagos last year while begging. The children also that were not privilege to attend school due to lack of parental care were been found among those that were killed with robbers two months ago.

If indeed I will invent something new, it will be a system to take care of the aged and children on the street by establishing a group of like-minded people that are ready to contribute to the welfare of these people.

I will use the money contribute to cultivate a land for farming, put use the service of some of them to take care of the farm while the farm produce sold will be used for their shelters.

The burden I have for the children on the street gives a duty to put them into school, using the money from the purse of the group.

I will create a system that keep the system going by seeking a voluntary support of the beneficiaries so that the system will continue.

The first stage of the system will not only be limited to Lagos, but will be extended to Ibadan in Oyo state where we have many out of school children. The second stage of the system will be taken to Ilorin and Jebba where we have may Alimanjiere.

This I believe will reduce insecurity in Nigeria if it can go round the country. It will also change the mind-set of our people toward building a lovely country.
