

IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING NEW

Faiza Abdulhakeem

Alfurqan International Science School, Naibawa Kano

Class: JSS 3

An electrical microphone pen is an intelligent pen that writes what you say through the microphone, the pen can also write on its own

Prior to the invention of electric microphone pen, a man who does not have hands sits down for a very important examination and does not have any relative, family or friend to assist him during the examination, that also goes with a blind man who wants to send a letter secretly or maybe privately to someone far away from him. For a teacher dictating to students during class, if the teacher was dictating too fast and also taking a lot of notes almost all the students in the class will get tired of writing, but with the help of this invention, the man without hands can speak to the microphone and then it will just write itself, the blind man can also speak to the microphone and then the invention can write down what he said, while the students can just turn the mic to where the teacher is.

This invention has a lot of benefits, It reduces stress such as, a doctor who checks on more than one hundred patients a day, he will get tired of writing and jotting things down, but with this invention the doctors will just have to listen to the patient and then decide on what to say on the mike, It's also rechargeable, you just have to charge it when it's low, instead of changing batteries every week, It's fast in jotting things you say fast, It can also listen to something that's far away when you instructed it to do so, It can correct you when make mistakes of what you are writing in your note, when internet is available It can answer questions and also browse, It can read aloud if instructed, It can explain things you don't understand or wrote in your notebook, It can even write without someone holding it or supporting it, It can only work if it was commanded or instructed to do something.

The invention of an electric microphone will help different places like, school, office, hospitals and so on, It is also needed at home for example a type of family who are always busy, the father is a manager in a business company he always record what's going on in the office, the mother is a teacher in a school she has to write note in a book before she goes to class, the children could sometimes be given lots of assignments in class, It would be stress for the whole family, but with this new invention it would make it much more easier and faster.

In conclusion, the invention of the electric microphone pen will help develop our environment faster and would help different category of people who have different challenges to achieve their write up faster in no time.