IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING NEW

If I could invent something new, I would invent an amazing device called the “Animal Translator “. Now let's talk about this animal translator ; an animal translator is a device that is able to change animal language to a language that we humans can understand . The translator will be placed on the animals neck to enable proper communication and it is a very good device that can help humans understand animals , it also helps us teach animals the proper behaviours.

I would prefer this invention because I am animal lover and I am always curious to know what they are saying and if I will have a chance to invent something new in future the first thing that would come to mind is this animal translator. It will be helpful in many ways . It can help us to communicate with animals and also help us to know their mannerisms and characters, it can also help to us to communicate with wild animals (lion,tiger jaguar, crocodile etc) and to also befriend those domestic animals.Animal translators are the best especially when you have pets and I once had pets that I loved so much,their names were Wise,Smart and Max .

Wise was my oldest and most cunning dog and I loved him so much but he went out when the gate was left open and never came back .Smart was the cutest and kindest dog that I've ever seen but my dad kept rat poison to get rid of the rodents but Smart mistakenly ate the rat poison and then died and finally Max was my last dog but then he fell ill but we didn't know what was wrong with him, all manner of medication was prescribed for him but it was too late when they diagnosed that it was cold and I miss him so much. My family was so heartbroken when we discovered that he was dying and there was nothing we could do.I wish I invented this device earlier. I could've warned Smart that we placed rat poison there and it should not be eaten and also helped Max to know what his symptoms was and rushed him to the veterinary hospital . The animal translator will be very useful because it could enable you have discussions with your pet and it will respond to you through the animal translator,you would never get bored and it would also be good as the user can recognize any illness in his pet and quickly take his pet to a veterinary clinic.

My inspiration came from an old encyclopedia named “FOCUS ON LIFE SCIENCE” in which I found need to create a bond between humans and animals which will go on for years and years to come, it will also be helpful in settling the ancient enmity between humans and the wild animals which has lasted since the time of Adam and Eve.
