If I could INVENT SOMETHING NEW. Invention is bringing new ideas or development to the society and world for the benefit of the people. If I invent something new it will change the society and world for better.

My first step in inventing is to identify a problem or need. More I will research existing solutions and brainstorm the ideas. Moreover, I will create a prototype, then test and refine the new invention. I will file for help and seek funding and partnerships.

If “I could invent something new” I will go into helping hand inventions. The thing that will benefit people, not the things that will destroy people. For instance, I will go into invention like machine that will help disabled people walk around. This machine will be electrified and computerized to help the disabled people go to any where in their environment.

The “Machine” will help the disabled to work, run at any given time and it will be well regulated. Again the machine will have in built oil storage device that will make it function efficiently and regularly. The oil device will lubricate the machine for effective movement by the disabled or the lame.

The purpose of this my new invention is to meet the basic needs of the disabled in the society. It will make life easier and more comfortable for the disabled or lame.

This new invention will help the disabled or the lame in particular to attend school of their choice no matter where it education they want.

Furthermore, it will help them to go to their areas of employment without stress. It will also help them to move around to work to meet their daily needs. With this my new invention they will no more be poor and beggars in the society.

The walking machine for the disabled will aid them not to dirty themselves and the environment they are living.

The new machine will be well structured for the lame so that they will use it to climb hilly areas and climb upstairs.

In creating this new invention, it will give me passion for meeting the needs for people especially the lame in our society. I will use it to make money to the benefit of the society. When I make money from this new invention, I will build industry to employ capable hands who will from there maintain their families.

From this new invention, it will give me recognition and the society where I come from it will be a good legacy set for our people and the youths who are the leaders of tomorrow.

Again in creating this new invention, it will also satisfy the intellectual curiosity of people. People will be very inquisitive to know how the new invention is made. If mastered will be used as a “Tutorial Issue” for the people and our youths in particular.

It will also attract new investors to the society who will use the opportunity to research on it and develop it in their respective countries.

Finally, the new invention will aid the lame to be on time in all their duties and engagements and they will be very productive and useful to the society
