IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING NEW

If I could invent something new that would improve and contribute positively to our society, it would be a “rechargeable generator”

Now –a- days, people use fuel consuming generator which consume lots of money each time is operated, especially in companies, Hospitals, schools and homes.

However, the use of light is very essential in our daily life and due to high cost of fuel and scarcity of fuel in some places: many are frustrated using fuel power generator.

Therefore, my own new invention “rechargeable generator” will contribute positively to the growth and development of the society as many companies will be able to produce effectively with low cost of power supply and thereby reduce the cost of living.

In conclusion, making use of this new invention is more suitable and reduce the scarcity of fuel (gasoline).
