ESSAY TOPIC: IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING NEW

Health is a big problem all over the world a lot of people get or infected from disease such as ; HIV, Aids and so on . In some places they are not enough doctors and hospital . Even in rich countries some people cannot afford to see a doctor this makes people sad and sick. To fix this problem we need to come up with a new idea.

One major problem is that not everyone can be able to see a doctor w then they need help . In small towns or poor countries there are not enough doctors or hospitals, this means many people stay sick because they can't get help.

Another problem is that going to the hospital to treat costs a lot of money. Many families went broke trying to pay for their medical bills. so this makes people afraid to go to the hospital and they get more sicker. Health care services can be usually messy and wasteful, sometimes doctors have to do the test over and over again and this waste a lot of money and time. If we could make health care better it will help in benefiting people and their money and to also get better care.

An innovative solution to solve the problem of health care is to create a smart app. This is an app that uses computers and internet to help get people medical care easily. This app helps people from all over the world to be able to talk to doctors from faraway places. People could use their computers or phones to see the doctors without leaving their homes. This would be a great opportunity for the people especially the ones who live far away from hospital. The app would also help doctors to look at medical record quickly to give better advice. The app uses AI to look to get access to medical information and helps doctor find out what wrong with a patient. It can also give advice on how to treat better. It makes it easier and faster for people to get the right help. It could also have virtual health assistance which is like a friend who knows the state of your health. You could put on a small device that knows how you are feeling. If something is wrong the app would tell you and your doctor right away. This way, you get help before really being sick.

To help with the money problem, the app shows you the prices of different and treatment. People would pick the cheapest or best options. You could also buy large quantities of medicines using the app. This health care app would make sure everyone gets the care they needs it could make healthcare cheaper, quicker and better.

In conclusion, health care should not be a big problem innovation like our smart technology will help everyone stay healthy and happy.
