IF I COULD INVENT SOMETHING NEW

My name is Victoria Gbenjo I am a JSS 2 student at Doregos Private Academy Ipaja, Lagos. I use many notable inventions in my daily life, but one thing I wish existed was a teleportation machine. This essay seeks to explain why I wish to invent a teleportation machine and its a benefit to me and the society.

A large number of people enjoy traveling and it can be very fun to travel with friends and family. However, while traveling, a common problem faced by travelers is traffic, especially in big cities such as Lagos Nigeria. Conveying from one location to another that takes about thirty minutes could take you up to three hours or more, which leads to fuel wastage, time wastage and you arrive at your destination extremely tired. A day I will never forget was the day I was coming to the mainland from the island which usually takes about an hour, but it took me five hours instead and it got me thinking about a teleportation machine. I am very sure anybody who stays in Lagos has had similar experiences. In addition to that, due to the recent heavy rainfall in this season in Nigeria, there has been flooding in some areas. This makes it insufferable to go on road trips without having the fear of being caught in a thunderstorm or your car getting extremely damaged by flood etc.

Teleportation is the act or process of moving someone or something immediately from one place to another using special equipment according to the Oxford Learners Dictionary. This enables people to teleport from one place to another such as Alimosho in Lagos state to Ona-ara in Oyo state through teleportation machines, traveling to places that will ordinarily take you a few hours, you could get there in a few minutes.

Presently, various scientists are currently working on inventing teleportation machines, but it seems impossible however all inventions once seemed impossible till it was invented. In the future, we would have teleportation stations where people would be teleported from one station to another after paying a fee.

I am still wondering how after so many years, we don't have a teleportation machine. The teleportation machine has been on my mind either I was watching my favorite cartoon, or I was stuck in a traffic jam, and I hope to turn my imagination into reality someday.

A teleportation machine would practically eliminate the need to sit for hours, road sickness, and accidents globally by a huge landscape. I am sure that with the use of special equipment, assistance from brainy scientists, and the supporting hand of the government, it would be a reality. I hope that one day, I will be the proud inventor of the first teleportation machine in the history of mankind.

Thank you.
