

If I could Invent Something New

It has been a long-time dream for me to be able to invent something which will be useful to mankind. From a very tender age, I often looked for methods and techniques that will make life easy. All this was for the sole aim of promoting ease with little effort.

In this new dispensation, it is now easier to develop a device useful to an individual and the whole world at large. Due to technology, we are able to achieve this new improvement on man's path. I have seen the utilisation of technology in different aspects of life, from education, banking, sports, to communication and advertising. There has to be a way to develop our country 'Nigeria' with the use of modern technology. If we are able to use technology in the different aspects of Nigeria, Nigeria is bound to become a developed country. What is the root issue? It is know all over the world that the pressing issues in Nigeria and Africa as a whole is rounded round bad political system and government.

If I could invent something new it would be a system of government, controlled by every citizen. Every person will have a say in their affairs from clerks to high income individuals. This system of government will involve the use of technology. There will be many seats of government. Each individual will be able to occupy at least a seat in the nation. If an individual is entitled to a second seat, it is through qualifications in such area of government. This does not mean the individual will hold more authority than other citizens, but such individual will be tasked of taking more critical decisions than others. In this setting there will be many departments, such as finance, welfare, education, planning and so on.

The departments will be made up of citizens who are in relation to that section. For example, the education department will be made up of students, academic staff, parents and other members of the educational system. In finalising, all votes on each matter will be counted and the majority will win, this is how a final decision will be reached. This will be executed through a highly intensive Artificial Intelligence. This will enable, proper use of the nation's funds and it shall reduce the cost of unnecessary expenses as each naira will be wisely managed through the system. This will then enable tax payer's money to be utilised in only the necessary areas, although there will be representatives, who will still represent the country at ceremonies and matters such as African Union or at summits.

In a changing society, were technology is predominantly used to solve common problems, we should allow our nation to change with it. This will make our country to be at rest from societal problems. Let us all join hands to make our nation a better place to be.
